

I rebuke you in the name of Jesus Christ!!!!!"

My husband and I were in Walgreens, and were trying to check out. The Cash register suddenly went into off mode and refused to work. I was already in a mood, so I blurted out, "satan, I rebuke you in the name of Jesus Christ!!!!!" Immediately it began to boot up, and the two cashiers were looking so surprised. One of them started saying, "Yeah, that's what I do too, I rebuke him."

Never know what the LORD will do through us when we get in a mood. Now she can witness to her friend, who also commented about praying to " whoever we said". She seemed to be Islamic, but she witnessed Jesus today.

All that I have is because of God's incomprehensible mercy, so fully unobtainable by anything that I could accomplish. His bequest of hope was given as I stood in the middle of an ocean of sin without a boat, without a paddle, or floor for my longed for salvation. His hand of love as a raft, became the foundation beneath my feet. My sinking was defeated by a yacht and priceless sails and oars of His love. In the winds of His hand, a price I could never pay, a heart I will never understand, and a charity I could never possess on my own, was the ransom silver for my wayward soul. All this my Jesus accomplished by surrendering the gales of life in a time of the desperation of human mortal life.

Love*

This made rescue from my own misdeeds now cast into a sea of forgetfulness, promising a place beside His glory. In the wondrous inconceivable realm of forever's light, love's unending, endearing passion settles all accounts. He made it complete, incontestable and sure. I could do nothing but surrender. Now my enemy can never stand against me.
